

Established in 2014, The Pretty Brown Girl (PBG) Foundation is a 501c3 non-profit organization whose mission is to address adverse social issues affecting girls of color through self-acceptance and leadership development programs. Today, the PBG Foundation has been featured by CNN and Essence, listed by New York Magazine, and ranked by NBC News for its work and impact within communities and schools.

50,000 +
Girls Empowered

350 +
School Partners

150 +
Scholarships Awarded

20 +
Schools Sponsored

The Pretty Brown Girl Foundation's Pillars

Education

We encourage and provide financial support for girls as they pursue educational endeavors. The Pretty Brown Girl Foundation has awarded over 150 scholarships to Black and Brown girls across the country.

Experience

We believe in promoting growth through sharing the experiences of others and providing direct opportunities for meaningful experiences intended to improve the well-being, knowledge, and skills to achieve their dreams.

Exposure

We create moments of exposure where Pretty Brown Girls can expand their minds, their reach, and their understanding of all the world has to offer as Change Agents within their families and communities.

